

DOCTORATE IN PHILOSOPHY POLITICAL SCIENCE AND SPECIALIZATION CANADIAN STUDIES

The School of Political Studies offers graduate programs leading to the Graduate Diploma in Public Management and Governance, and to the degrees of Master of Arts (MA) and PhD in Political Science. The MA program is offered both full- and part-time whereas the PhD program is offered full-time only. The programs are offered in French and English.

Two options are available for the MA: the MA with thesis and the MA with research paper.

It is possible to follow the Master's or the PhD program exclusively in French.

Students who enroll in their program in French (MA or PhD) must take the majority of their courses in French:

- Master's with Thesis: students must take at least three of their required courses in French.
- Master's with Major Research Paper: students must take at least four of their required courses in French.
- PhD: students must take at least three courses in French.

Students who enroll in their program in English (MA or PhD) must take and pass at least one of their required courses in French.

All students are permitted to hand in their assignments in French or in English. At the time of admission, students must have an active knowledge of French and a passive understanding of English. French is the working language of the School's meetings, including those of the graduate students' association, and in the School's internal communications.

The department participates in the collaborative programs in Women's Studies (at the MA level) and in Canadian Studies (at the PhD level). For more information on this program, see "Admission Requirements."

Because of its strength in relevant areas, its bilingual character and its location in the national capital, the University of Ottawa is uniquely positioned to offer a collaborative program leading to a specialization in Canadian Studies at the doctoral level. The program is especially designed for doctoral students in selected programs in the humanities and the social sciences who wish to enrich their training in a particular discipline by including an interdisciplinary component.

The programs are governed by the academic regulations (<https://www.uottawa.ca/about-us/leadership-governance/policies-regulations/>) in effect for graduate studies.

Admission Requirements

For the most accurate and up to date information on application deadlines, language tests and other admission requirements, please visit the specific requirements (<https://www.uottawa.ca/graduate-studies/programs-admission/apply/specific-requirements/>) webpage.

To be admitted to the PhD program, candidates must hold a master's degree in political science (or the equivalent) with a minimum average of 75% (B+) calculated in accordance with graduate studies guidelines. Exceptional students in the master's program at the University of Ottawa may, under certain conditions (see "Transfer from master's to PhD"), be allowed to transfer to the PhD without being required to write a master's thesis.

An active knowledge of French and English is essential. All students admitted will have to take at least one of their courses in French and must be capable of reading texts in English and French. Students must indicate in their application the language in which they plan to take the majority of their courses. Those students who plan to study mainly in English will have to demonstrate in their application an active knowledge of English. All students whose first language is other than English or French must provide proof in their application of their level of competence in both languages. The School of Political Studies reserves the right to require a language test for either language.

Fields

The program offers the following fields:

- International relations
- Canadian and Quebec politics
- Political thought and the analysis of ideologies
- Comparative politics
- Women and politics
- Environmental politics
- Political economy
- Citizenship, diversity and migration

Additional Requirements

The requirements outlined above are a minimum. The School of Political Studies reserves the right to add any course considered essential in light of the student's background.

Collaborative Program

The School of Political Studies is one of the participating units in the collaborative PhD program in Canadian Studies. This program was created to enable students to enrich their education in political science by adding the interdisciplinary dimension of Canadian Studies. The Seminar in Canadian Studies (CDN 6520 or CDN 6910) is recognized by the School of Political Studies towards the requirements of the PhD degree. Thus students enrolled in the collaborative program do not have to take an additional course.

To be accepted into the collaborative program, students must be already enrolled in at least one graduate course in political science with Canadian content, or have already passed such a course. The degree of those who have successfully completed the interdisciplinary seminar (CDN 6520 or CDN 6910) and thesis with Canadian content, will indicate a "specialization in Canadian Studies."

Transfer from Master's to PhD

Students in the MA program at the University of Ottawa who have performed exceptionally well academically, who have demonstrated solid research skills and who are deemed sufficiently mature, may proceed to the doctoral program without completing their master's degree. Please note that the minimal admission average requirements for the doctoral program must also be met. The conditions for transfer are as follows:

- successful completion of at least four POL graduate courses (12 units) with an A average as well as an A+ in at least one of the courses
- approval of the Graduate Studies Committee of the School of Political Studies. The committee makes its decision on the basis of written reports on the student's maturity and research skills, from the student's thesis supervisor and from the professors in the courses taken in the master's program.

The request for transfer must be made during the third term of full-time enrollment (or equivalent), and the transfer must take place before the end of the fourth term. The Graduate Studies committee will take into account the student's grades, thesis plan (or draft plan) and the reports from professors who taught the courses taken at the master's.

Following the transfer, the student must successfully complete all the requirements of the PhD program. Students who transfer but do not complete the PhD program can however obtain the MA degree provided they meet all of its requirements.

Note(s)

All students must successfully complete at least one course given in French.

CDN 6520 is offered only in French.

To continue in the program, students must pass both comprehensive examinations (the major and the minor). In accordance with the academic regulations in effect for graduate studies, any student who fails the major or minor comprehensive examination has the right to one retake. A student who is unsuccessful on the second attempt will be withdrawn.

Comprehensive examinations are aimed at proving basic knowledge in the fields of study. The major field comprehensive examination usually takes place towards the end of the third term of enrollment in the program. The minor field comprehensive examination usually takes place at the end of the fourth term of enrollment in the program.

POL 9310, POL 9320, POL 9350 and THD 9999 are graded on a satisfactory (S) or not satisfactory (NS) basis.

The thesis proposal must be approved by the thesis committee. A student whose proposal is not accepted on the first submission may be allowed to submit it a second time. A student whose proposal is rejected a second time will be withdrawn from the program.

Submission and successful defence of a thesis on a Canadian topic in the participating unit. The proposed topic must be approved by both the participating unit and the Canadian Studies Graduate Committee. At least one of the examiners of the thesis must be a person chosen in consultation with the executive committee of the Institute of Canadian and Aboriginal Studies.

Minimum Standards

Students are required to maintain a minimum average of B+ during their PhD program. Those who receive a grade lower than B+ in two courses or more will be required to withdraw.

Research

Research at the University of Ottawa

Located in the heart of Canada's capital, a few steps away from Parliament Hill, the University of Ottawa ranks among Canada's top 10 research universities. Our research is founded on excellence, relevance and impact and is conducted in a spirit of equity, diversity and inclusion.

Our research community thrives in four strategic areas:

- Creating a sustainable environment
- Advancing just societies
- Shaping the digital world
- Enabling lifelong health and wellness

From advancing healthcare solutions to tackling global challenges like climate change, the University of Ottawa's researchers are at the forefront of innovation, making significant contributions to society and beyond.

Research at the Faculty of Social Sciences

The Faculty of Social Sciences represents a place of excellence in knowledge creation, research and training. Driven by both disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives, research at the Faculty is rich, innovative and varied, contributing to the depth of understanding and breadth of discussions on a variety of issues nationally and internationally. This research, whether it be fundamental, theoretical, applied or action-oriented, is generated by our renowned expertise, ultimately culminating in applications designed to influence individual communities and the betterment of society.

We have identified five research themes which collectively represent a large proportion of the research undertaken at the Faculty of Social Sciences:

- International Studies
- Francophonie
- Public Policy
- Health, Well-Being
- Justice, Society
