MASTER OF ARTS ENGLISH LITERATURE SPECIALIZATION IN WOMEN’S STUDIES

(This program is offered in English only.)

The Department of English offers the degrees of Master of Arts (with or without thesis) and Doctor of Philosophy in English. Both programs equip students to pursue advanced studies in British, Canadian, or American literature informed by a broad knowledge of literary history and by recent developments in literary criticism and cultural theory. The department is well known for its annual Canadian Literature Symposium, and its faculty is distinguished and well-published. The Ontario Council on Graduate Studies (OCGS) has consistently awarded the department the council’s highest rating.

The department participates in the collaborative programs in Women’s Studies and in Medieval and Renaissance Studies at the master’s level, and in the collaborative program in Canadian Studies at the PhD level. For more information on these programs, see “Program Requirements”.

The Collaborative program in women’s studies at the master’s level is designed for students from selected disciplines in arts, education, health sciences, law, social sciences, and counselling and spirituality (Saint Paul University), who have an interest in women’s studies. These students have the opportunity to combine advanced studies in their primary program with analyses from a women’s studies perspective. The degree awarded is a master’s degree in the primary program with a “specialization in Women’s Studies”.

The programs are governed by the general regulations (http://www.grad.uottawa.ca/Default.aspx?tabid=1807) in effect for graduate studies. Please note, however, that any course fulfilling a graduate degree requirement in English must be completed with a mark of B or higher. A student whose record shows any two grades lower than a mark of B will automatically be withdrawn from the program. Most graduate courses in the Department of English are not eligible for scholarship support. The residence requirement for graduate courses is three years.

Admission Requirements

For the most accurate and up to date information on application deadlines, language tests and other admission requirements, please visit the specific requirements (http://www.uottawa.ca/graduate-studies/programs-admission/apply/specific-requirements) webpage.

- The MA program is intended to refine the critical and scholarly skills of high-achieving graduates from undergraduate honours programs. An honours BA in English literature with a minimum high second class standing of B+ is normally required. A 500-word statement of interest in the program is required with the application. Students applying for the MA with thesis option should submit a sample of their academic writing, such as an essay written for an undergraduate English course.
- Students who have completed a BA or equivalent degree with a minimum of six full courses in English with an average of 75 per cent (B+) may be admitted to a qualifying year which normally comprises 30 units selected to ensure coverage of the major fields of English literature. These courses must be successfully completed in each case with a mark of B+ or higher. By special permission one or two graduate courses may be substituted for the equivalent number of undergraduate courses. After the requirements of the qualifying year have been satisfactorily fulfilled, students may apply for admission to the regular MA program. Such admission will depend on the quality of their overall record.

Collaborative Programs

The Department of English is a participating unit in the collaborative programs in Women’s Studies (master’s level only) and in Medieval and Renaissance Studies (master’s level only). Students should indicate in their initial application for admission to the Master’s program in English that they wish to be accepted into one of the collaborative programs.

To be accepted in the Collaborative program in women’s studies at the master’s level, applicants must first be accepted to the master’s program in a participating program. Successful applicants will normally hold an honours degree or the equivalent and have a minimum average of 70 per cent (B). They must also have a background in women’s studies, that is, a minimum of two undergraduate level courses or one graduate level course on women, gender, feminism or sexualities. Students who do not have an adequate background may be eligible to our Special Policy for Admissions.

Applications for admission to the Collaborative program in women’s studies at the master’s level are submitted at the same time as the application for admission to the Master’s program of the relevant discipline. Only one application for admission is required for the collaborative Master’s program. In exceptional cases, students could commence their specialization in women’s studies in their second term of their primary program.

The letter of intent submitted with the application should include a clear account of the “women’s studies” dimension in the proposed topic of research.

Program Requirements

The Department offers three options for the MA:

- A two-year program in which students complete fifteen units of course work, including ENG 6302 and ENG 6303, as well as a thesis proposal (ENG 7997), and a thesis (THM 7999) of about ninety pages in length defended in an oral examination.
- A one-year program in which students complete eighteen units of course work, including ENG 6302 and ENG 6303, as well as a research paper (ENG 6999) of about 12,000 words.
- A one-year program in which students complete twenty-seven units of course work, including ENG 6302 and ENG 6303.

The completion times above are for the full-time students. Part-time students may take up to four years to complete either MA program, but are not eligible for scholarship support. The residence requirement for students admitted on a part-time basis is three terms.

In keeping with the bilingual character of the University, the program has a French language requirement. Student may satisfy this requirement by passing FLS 1000, the test administered by the Official Languages and Bilingualism Institute, or its equivalent as determined by the Department of English. A pass on the Department’s test leads to an S on the transcript. Students may also satisfy the language requirement by passing six units of second-year university-level language course(s).
These courses are additional to the English courses required for the degree.

Collaborative Program in Women's Studies

Students admitted to the Collaborative program in women's studies at the master's level must meet the requirements for a master's degree in their primary program as well as the requirements of the women's studies program. Normally, the women's studies courses are recognized as partial fulfillment of the requirements of the student's primary program, in which case the passing grade in the relevant FEM course or courses is the same as that specified for the primary program.

Thesis or Major Research Paper

Note(s)

• Students must complete the two compulsory courses before their first enrollment for the major research paper or thesis.
• The thesis or major research paper must be on a topic related to women, gender, feminism or sexualities. The proposed topic must be approved by the Women's Studies Graduate Committee as well as by the student's primary program. The thesis or major research paper must demonstrate knowledge of feminist scholarship in the field or fields appropriate to the topic, and of feminist methodologies where applicable.
• The thesis supervisor must possess Women's Studies and/or feminist expertise. In the case of a major research paper, the supervisor should, ideally, possess Women's Studies and/or feminist expertise. If not, one of the readers must possess such expertise. Joint supervision by a professor from the participating unit and a professor chosen by the WSGC may be appropriate in some cases.
• Thesis or Major Research Paper Proposal: The thesis or major research paper proposal must be approved by the Women's Studies Graduate Committee as well as by the primary program. Usually the thesis or major research paper proposal is submitted to women's studies by the end of the third term of the first year of studies. For the primary programs that do not require a proposal, students must still submit a proposal to the Women's Studies Graduate Committee.
• Examiner or Reader: One of the examiners (for the thesis) or reader (for the major research paper) must be a person approved by the Women's Studies Graduate Committee.

Duration of Program

Students are expected to complete all requirements within two years. The thesis must be submitted within four years of the date of initial enrollment in the program.

Minimum Standards

The passing grade in all courses is B. Students who fail two courses (equivalent to 6 units) must withdraw from the program.
