

MICROPROGRAM DEVELOPMENT OF INDIGENOUS FAMILY- CHILDHOOD SERVICES – FOUNDATIONS FOR PRACTICE

This 9 course units microprogram on the Development of Indigenous child-family services aims to meet the needs of Indigenous communities who, following the coming into effect in 2020 of the federal law C-92, are developing or wishing to develop their own child and family support systems. It specifically wants to support the training needs of stakeholders who will be involved in this transformation process by offering the required knowledge foundations.

This microprogram is aimed at all people (students registered in a program at the University of Ottawa, holders of a secondary diploma, volunteers, stakeholders or others) who have an interest in working in organizations serving Indigenous children, families and communities. The microprogram is primarily meant for Indigenous people.

Most course sessions are offered online. Some sessions may take place in Indigenous communities. Courses will favor a schedule outside of usual working hours (evenings, weekends and intensively, if necessary). The courses will be taught by Indigenous professors, and/or co-taught with Indigenous speakers and professors from the School of Social Work. For more details, visit the School of Social Work website (<https://www.uottawa.ca/faculty-social-sciences/social-work/>).

This program is offered in French only.

Admission Requirements

The enrollment process for this Microprogram depends on your student status.

Students already admitted and enrolled in an undergraduate program

You must complete and submit a questionnaire regarding motivations for undertaking the microprogram. Please contact the School of Social Work: servsoc@uottawa.ca.

Non-degree students

Students who wish to pursue the Microprogram Development of Indigenous Family-Childhood Services – Foundations for Practice without being admitted must obtain prior approval from the School of Social Work.

Non-degree students must meet the following eligibility criteria:

- High school diploma;
- Have work experience (volunteer or paid) in an organization that provides services to Indigenous children, families and communities OR demonstrate an interest in working in organizations serving Indigenous children, families and communities;
- Complete and submit a questionnaire on motivations to undertake the microprogram.

If you would like to enroll for the Microprogram Development of Indigenous Family-Childhood Services – Foundations for Practice without enrolling in an undergraduate study program, please send an email to servsoc@uottawa.ca for more information.

Program Requirements

Compulsory Courses

TSO 2550	Pratiques d'intervention autochtones	3 Units
TSO 2551	Services, enfance et familles autochtones	3 Units
TSO 3555	Travail social auprès des populations autochtones	3 Units

Total: 9 Units