DOCTORATE IN PHILOSOPHY
ENGLISH LITERATURE
SPECIALIZATION IN CANADIAN STUDIES

(This program is offered in English only.)

The Department of English offers the degrees of Master of Arts (with or without thesis) and Doctor of Philosophy in English. Both programs equip students to pursue advanced studies in British, Canadian, or American literature informed by a broad knowledge of literary history and by recent developments in literary criticism and cultural theory. The department is well known for its annual Canadian Literature Symposium, and its faculty is distinguished and well-published. The Ontario Council on Graduate Studies (OCGS) has consistently awarded the department the council’s highest rating.

The department participates in the collaborative programs in Women’s Studies and in Medieval and Renaissance Studies at the master’s level, and in the collaborative program in Canadian Studies at the PhD level.

Because of its strength in relevant areas, its bilingual character and its location in the national capital, the University of Ottawa is uniquely positioned to offer a collaborative program leading to a specialization in Canadian Studies at the doctoral level. The program is especially designed for doctoral students in selected programs in the humanities and the social sciences who wish to enrich their training in a particular discipline by including an interdisciplinary component.

The programs are governed by the general regulations (http://www.grad.uottawa.ca/Default.aspx?tabid=1807) in effect for graduate studies. Please note, however, that any course fulfilling a graduate degree requirement in English must be completed with a mark of B or higher. A student whose record shows any two grades lower than a mark of B will automatically be withdrawn from the program. Most graduate courses in the Department of English at the University of Ottawa carry three units. Requirements are stated in number of units.

Admission Requirements
For the most accurate and up to date information on application deadlines, language tests and other admission requirements, please visit the specific requirements (https://www.uottawa.ca/graduate-studies/programs-admission/apply/specific-requirements) webpage.

A master’s degree in English literature, or the equivalent, with at least high second class standing (B+), is required.

A 500-word statement describing the student’s specific interest in the program is required with the application.

Collaborative Program
The Department of English is a participating unit in the collaborative program in Canadian Studies at the PhD level. This program has been established for students wishing to include an interdisciplinary component in Canadian studies as part of their degree in English. The seminar (CDN 6520 or CDN 6910) counts towards departmental course requirements and does not add to the number of courses required for the PhD.

To be admitted to the program, students must be enrolled in or have successfully completed at least one graduate course in English with Canadian content. The mention "Specialization in Canadian Studies" will be added to the diploma of students who pass the seminar (CDN 6520 or CDN 6910) and successfully defend a thesis on a Canadian topic in English.

Program Requirements

Doctoral Program

The student must successfully complete:

• 18 units of course work (or 15 units if the student has completed ENG 6302 and ENG 6303 as an MA student in English at the University of Ottawa, or an equivalent course elsewhere);
• one language requirement;
• the comprehensive examination (ENG 9998);
• the PhD thesis proposal (ENG 9997); and
• the PhD thesis research (THD 9999).

Normal Progress Through the Program

Year One:
18 units of course work, including:

• ENG 6302 and ENG 6303 (or 15 units if the student has completed ENG 6302 and ENG 6303 as an MA student in English at the University of Ottawa, or an equivalent course elsewhere); and
• ENG 6304.

The dissertation topic must be registered by the end of the third term (that is, the spring term, if initially enrolled in the fall) after the date of initial enrollment; progress toward meeting the language requirement.

Year Two:
Completion of comprehensive examinations and the language requirement.

Comprehensive examinations are normally taken by the end of the second year and are offered three times each year (late August, December, and April). Students who wish to write the comprehensives must obtain approval from the director of graduate studies by April 1 for August examinations, by September 1 for December examinations, and by December 1 for April examinations.

The examinations are made up of three written papers (a major field and two minor fields) and corresponding oral examinations. If the major field is before 1790, then at least one of the minor fields will be post-1790, or the converse. Complete guidelines and procedures are available at the department.

Year Three:
Submission of thesis proposal (ENG 9997) followed by research and writing of the dissertation.

Year Four:
Completion of the dissertation (THD 9999) and its defence.

Collaborative Program in Canadian Studies

Students enrolled in the collaborative program will be asked to meet both the requirements of their primary program and those of the collaborative program. The requirements of the collaborative program will serve as partial fulfillment of the requirements of their primary program.

Compulsory Courses:

Submission and successful defence of a thesis on a Canadian topic in the participating unit.

The proposed topic must be approved by both the participating unit and the Canadian Studies Graduate Committee. At least one of the examiners of the thesis must be a person chosen in consultation with the executive committee of the Institute of Canadian and Aboriginal Studies.

Note(s)

1 Before enrolling in CDN 6520, students must check to see whether this course can replace a three unit course in their primary program. CDN 6520 is offered only in French.

Language Requirements

The language requirement is normally French. However, where knowledge of another language is necessary for the major field (e.g. Latin for students working in Medieval or Renaissance studies), the student may request an alternative choice from the Department's Graduate Committee.

Students may satisfy the requirement by passing FLS 1000 or by passing six units of second-year university-level language course(s). These courses are additional to the 18 units required for the degree. Language testing of languages other than French is normally administered by the Department during the first week of September and in December and April of each year. The departmental language tests are one-hour examinations which require the candidate to translate, with the aid of a dictionary, a passage of literary criticism or another appropriate selection of similar difficulty approximately one page in length. In call cases, the minimum passing mark is 65%, and leads to an S (Satisfactory) on the transcript for THM 7999. Students who already achieved 65% in the test at the MA level are not required to retake the test at the PhD level.

The language requirement must be satisfied before the student proceeds to the thesis proposal.

Duration of Program

The student must complete all requirements within six years of initial enrollment.

Minimum Standards

The passing grade in all courses is B. Students who fail two courses (equivalent to 6 units), the thesis proposal, or the comprehensive exam whose research progress is deemed unsatisfactory are required to withdraw.
