

MASTER OF ARTS SOCIOLOGY SPECIALIZATION IN FEMINIST AND GENDER STUDIES

The School of Sociological and Anthropological Studies offers the following programs: Master of Arts (MA) and PhD in sociology; Master of Arts (MA) in anthropology. In addition, the School participates in the following collaborative programs: Feminist and Gender Studies (master's level) and Canadian studies (doctoral level).

The MA in sociology is offered as a full-time and a part-time program, in French and in English. In English, the maximum number of annual admissions is fixed according to the procedure explained in the "Admission Requirements" section. In accordance with the University of Ottawa regulation, students may write their assignments, research papers, theses and examinations in either English or French.

Two options are available for the master's program: the MA with thesis and the MA with research paper, to which admissible students may add the co-op option. Students in both options are eligible for admission to the collaborative program in Feminist and Gender Studies. For more information, see the section "Apply for Admission (<http://www.grad.uottawa.ca/default.aspx?tabid=1624&Org=EBC>)."

The Collaborative program in Feminist and Gender Studies at the master's level is designed for students from selected disciplines in arts, education, health sciences, law, social sciences, and counselling and spirituality (Saint Paul University), who have an interest in Feminist and Gender Studies. These students have the opportunity to combine advanced studies in their primary program with analyses from a Feminist and Gender Studies perspective. The degree awarded is a master's degree in the primary program with a "specialization in Feminist and Gender Studies".

The PhD in sociology is offered as a full-time program only, in English and in French. However, both required seminars are offered in French exclusively. The doctoral program aims to train sociologists capable of conducting research on the social relations that define the conditions of existence and the transformations of contemporary societies, while using the most up-to-date theoretical and methodological tools. The program's two main fields of research are minorities and culture, and political sociology. Students in the doctoral program are eligible for admission to the collaborative program in Canadian studies. For more information, see the section "Apply for Admission (<http://www.grad.uottawa.ca/default.aspx?tabid=1624&Org=EBC>)."

Professors in the School of Sociological and Anthropological Studies conduct research in a number of areas. For a more complete understanding of the breadth of research being undertaken at the School, students are encouraged to consult the list of professors and their areas of interest, which extend well beyond the fields of research mentioned above.

The programs are governed by the general regulations (<http://www.grad.uottawa.ca/Default.aspx?tabid=1807>) in effect for graduate studies.

Admission Requirements

For the most accurate and up to date information on application deadlines, language tests and other admission requirements, please visit the specific requirements (<https://www.uottawa.ca/graduate-studies/programs-admission/apply/specific-requirements/>) webpage.

Students who have a BA with honours or major in sociology or in another equivalent discipline, with a minimum average of 70% (B) calculated in accordance with graduate studies guidelines, may be admitted to the MA program.

Students who have an honours BA with a minimum average of 70% (B) in another discipline, calculated in accordance with graduate studies guidelines, but are considered to have an insufficient academic background may be accepted into a qualifying program, requiring them to complete a maximum of eight courses.

All applicants must be able to understand, speak, and write either English or French proficiently. Applicants whose first language is neither English nor French must provide proof of proficiency in one or the other. The list of acceptable tests is indicated in the "Admission" section of the general regulations in effect for graduate studies.

The maximum number of students admitted annually in the MA in sociology in English is limited to the average of admissions to the French version in the previous three years. The maximum number of admissions for the current year is available from the secretariat of the School of Anthropological and Sociological Studies.

Collaborative Program in Feminist and Gender Studies

This program was created to enable students to enrich their education in sociology by adding the interdisciplinary dimension of Feminist and Gender Studies. The Feminist and Gender Studies program consists of two compulsory Feminist and Gender Studies (FEM) courses as well as a thesis or research paper on a subject related to Feminist and Gender Studies. FEM courses are recognized by the master's program in sociology. Students enrolled in the collaborative program therefore do not have to take any additional courses.

Students should indicate in their initial application for admission to the master's program in sociology that they wish to be accepted into the collaborative program.

Program Requirements

Requirements for this program have been modified. Please consult the 2018-2019 calendars (<https://catalogue.uottawa.ca/en/archives/>) for the previous requirements.

The main areas of specialization at the master's level include:

- Interethnic relations
- Development
- Political sociology
- Gender relations

Students are not limited to these areas of specialization when choosing a research topic for their thesis or research paper. For a more complete understanding of the breadth of research being conducted at the School, students can consult the list of professors and their areas of interest, which extend far beyond the areas of specialization mentioned above.

In accordance with the University of Ottawa regulation, students can write their assignments, research papers, theses and examinations in either English or French.

MA with Thesis

Compulsory Courses in Feminist and Gender Studies (FEM):

| | | |
|----------|-------------------------------------|---------|
| FEM 5103 | Feminist Methodologies ¹ | 3 Units |
| FEM 5300 | Feminist Theories ¹ | 3 Units |

Compulsory Courses in Sociology (SOC):

| | | |
|---|------------------------------|---------|
| SOC 6101 | Research Design in Sociology | 3 Units |
| 6 elective course units in sociology (SOC) at the graduate level ² | | 6 Units |

Thesis Proposal:

| | | |
|----------|-----------------|--|
| SOC 7990 | Thesis Proposal | |
|----------|-----------------|--|

Thesis:

| | | |
|----------|------------------------------|--|
| THM 7999 | Master's Thesis ³ | |
|----------|------------------------------|--|

Note(s):

- ¹ Students must complete the two compulsory courses in Feminist and Gender Studies (FEM) prior to enrolling for the thesis.
- ² One graduate course or equivalent (3 units) from another program may count as part of the coursework for a master's with thesis, subject to the approval of the supervisor of graduate studies in sociology, and after consultation with the department responsible for the course.
- ³ A thesis on a topic related to women, gender, feminism or sexualities. The proposed topic must be approved by the Feminist and Gender Studies graduate committee as well as by the sociology program. The thesis or major research paper must demonstrate knowledge of feminist scholarship in the field or fields appropriate to the topic, and of feminist methodologies where applicable

Students should begin the process of selecting a thesis topic and a supervisor immediately upon commencing the program. The supervisor must be a member of the School of Sociological and Anthropological Studies. The topic and supervisor must be enrolled no later than the end of the second term in the program.

Enrollment for the thesis proposal (SOC 7990) takes place preferably in the second term, but at the latest in the third. Each student is assigned to a thesis advisory committee, composed of three professors, including the thesis supervisor. The committee members are proposed by the thesis supervisor, in consultation with the student, and appointed by the Graduate Studies Committee of the School.

The thesis proposal is prepared under the guidance of the thesis supervisor and must be approved by the Thesis Advisory Committee. Once the project has been approved, the preparation and writing of the thesis begins. For additional information, consult section G of the academic regulations (<http://www.grad.uottawa.ca/Default.aspx?tabid=1807>) in effect for graduate studies.

The aim of the proposal is to develop:

- the capacity to formulate a clear research protocol;
- familiarity with the scholarly literature related to the project;
- the ability to circumscribe the limits and scope of the project, both conceptually and methodologically;

- the ability to carry out the remaining steps leading from the proposal to the completion of the master's thesis.

Master's Thesis

For information regarding the thesis, consult the web site of the sociology program (<http://socialsciences.uottawa.ca/soc-ant/guidelines-preparation-proposal-ma-sociology/>).

Note(s):

- ¹ Students must complete the two compulsory courses in Feminist and Gender Studies (FEM) prior to enrolling for the research paper.
- ² Up to two graduate courses (6 units) from another program may count as coursework for the master's program with research paper, subject to the approval of the supervisor of graduate studies in sociology and after consultation with the department responsible for the course(s) concerned.
- ³ A major research paper on a topic related to women, gender, feminism or sexualities. The proposed topic must be approved by the Feminist and Gender Studies Graduate Committee as well as by the sociology program. The thesis or major research paper must demonstrate knowledge of feminist scholarship in the field or fields appropriate to the topic, and of feminist methodologies where applicable

Research Paper

For information regarding the research paper, consult the website of the sociology program (<http://socialsciences.uottawa.ca/soc-ant/guidelines-preparation-proposal-ma-sociology/>).

Co-op Option

The MA in Sociology, with the assistance of the University of Ottawa's co-op office, offers a co-op stream to a limited number of students who will request this option in their admission file. The co-op option gives selected students the opportunity to acquire practical work experience by completing two paid one-term, work placements.

The option for the co-op stream is as follows. The first co-op placement will be in the summer of the first year, and the second work placement will take place in the fall of the second year. Students who enroll in the co-op option will obtain twelve units (six units per work placement) for their work experience. Each work term is graded P/F (Pass or Fail), based on the employer's report and on a written report completed by the student. The student's report must be 15 to 20 pages, including appendices. A regular professor from the School will evaluate the student reports.

The units awarded for co-op work terms may not be used to obtain equivalences for other courses. In other words, the co-op units are additional to the minimum requirements of the degree.

To remain enrolled in the co-op program, a student must:

- maintain full-time status;
- maintain a 7.0 grade point average; and
- obtain a passing grade for each co-op work term

Duration of the Program

Students in the thesis option are expected to complete all requirements within two years of full-time study. Those in the research paper option are expected to complete within four terms (16 months) of full-time study. The maximum time permitted, whether full- or part-time, is four years from the date of initial enrollment in the program.

Research

Research Fields & Facilities

Located in the heart of Canada's capital, a few steps away from Parliament Hill, the University of Ottawa is among Canada's top 10 research universities.

uOttawa focuses research strengths and efforts in four Strategic Areas of Development in Research (SADRs):

- Canada and the World
- Health
- e-Society
- Molecular and Environmental Sciences

With cutting-edge research, our graduate students, researchers and educators strongly influence national and international priorities.

Research at the Faculty of Social Sciences

The Faculty of Social Sciences represents a place of excellence in knowledge creation, research and training. Driven by both disciplinary and interdisciplinary perspectives, research at the Faculty is rich, innovative and varied, contributing to the depth of understanding and breadth of discussions on a variety of issues nationally and internationally. This research, whether it be fundamental, theoretical, applied or action-oriented, is generated by our renowned expertise, ultimately culminating in applications designed to influence individual communities and the betterment of society.

We have identified five research themes which collectively represent a large proportion of the research undertaken at the Faculty of Social Sciences:

- International Studies
- Francophonie
- Public Policy
- Health, Well-Being
- Justice, Society
